“ Mason and I went fishing yesterday and I realized after fixing his pole like 10 times and setting the knot that you showed me how to do this a hundred times and never complained how much time it took. There have been a lot of these days this past year since you have been gone, from my lawnmower not working right to the door knob needing something adjusted. I realized how much you helped me and how much I miss all the little talks we shared. I miss you every day. I hope your fishing and drinking beer in heaven. Love you gramps.
