““Uncle Ed” as we always called him was such a good man. He was always delighted to see family and friends. My fondest memories of Uncle Ed were walking through his garden when I was a youngster, he would point out all the vegetables that were growing. He also loved to grow grapes and he had the best grape plants that I have ever seen. The funny thing was they never tasted like the ones in the grocery store, they were always bitter. Little did I know at my young age these grapes were for making juice and wine which required fermenting to create that sweet taste.

Uncle Ed lead a life of humility and wisdom. I look forward to the day that I will be reunited with Uncle Ed in heaven. May God comfort all those who morn his leaving this earth and help us to treasure the memories he has left with us.
